

Preamble

The Helmholtz-Zentrum Geesthacht - Zentrum für Material- und Küstenforschung GmbH (HZG) is one of 18 members of the Helmholtz Association of German Research Centres, Germany's largest science organization. HZG is engaged in the fields of materials and coastal research. In 2009 the Climate Service Center Germany (GERICS) was initiated at HZG by the German Federal Government as part of the German hightech-strategy for climate protection. GERICS offers in a scientifically sound manner products, advisory services and decision-relevant information - e.g. Climate-Fact-Sheets - in order to support government, administration and business in their efforts to adapt to climate change. It builds up a national and international network structure in order to integrate existing competences and knowledge, and to link various actors within the complex area of climate change, e.g. climate researchers and advisors in the field of climate change.
